Dear Harold:

My apologies for not replying to your June 7 letter sooner. It seems as if I have been encamped in Miami and Key West for so many weeks that my friends may soon mistake me for a Cuban refugee.

Anyway, it was good to receive your communique, but also disturbing to read of all those potential dangers.

I remain convinced that a story does exist for us at some future date about all these odd coincidences and happenings that seem to fall through the cracks and never see the light of day in the national news media.

I only wish that your picturesque little community of Frederick could be my base of operations for a week or two, so I could piece together some or all of the shards and fragments that you have labored so diligently to uncover--and weave them into a highly readable and important story.

Please do stay in touch. There's a scant chance I'll be in the Washington area during my vacation in late August, so perhaps I can stop by then.

Again, thanks for continuing to think of me, Harold, and please convey my very best to Lil.

Kindest regards,

Jeff
